Fires threaten Bay homes, smoke blankets city

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The City of Bay St. Louis has been blanketed with a cloud of smoke for the last five days. Bay Fire Chief Andrew Lizana reported Wednesday morning that his firefighters have spent Sunday and Monday nights protecting residences on Felicity, Dunbar, Byer Drive, Engman, Joe's Bayou Road, and Blue Meadow Road from menacing woods fires in the area.

"We had to keep these areas under continued surveillance because of the wild fires as many homes were threatened," Lizana stated.

Lizana added, "The residents on Felicity Street were very cooperative, some of them were up all night watering their roofs and yards, with water hoses helping the firefighters."

"We are lucky no homes were damaged by the wild woods fires driven by stiff breezes," Lizana allowed.

Lizana said some of his firefighters worked through 48 hours during the crisis.

Assistance was given to Bay St. Louis by East Hancock Volunteer Fire Department and Waveland Fire Department, Lizana stated. "They sent their small fire vehicles which were needed in getting in some close quarters."

"All burning permits have been revoked in Bay St. Louis until further notice," Lizana emphasized.

Lizana said, "The developers of the area being cleared for the new shopping center, at Dunbar and US-90, had a burning permit, but when the smoke started to settle over the city we asked them not burn any more to which they have agreed."

Most of the smoke over the city was caused by the wild wood fires, according to Lizana.

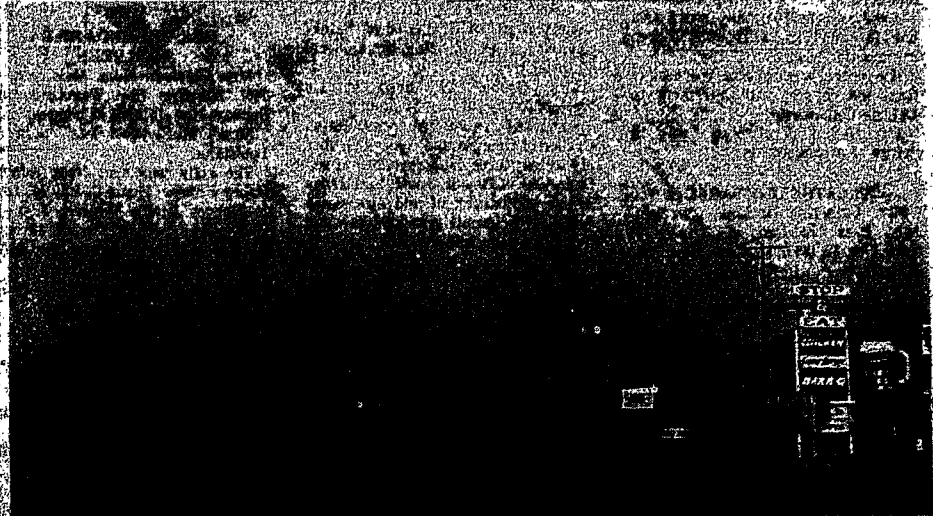

Mayor Larry Bennett said Wednesday, "I would like to ask everyone to please observe no burning because of the severe drought."

"The fire department had to respond to the Webb Street Pump, where dumping is prohibited, on Oct. 31 six times, Nov. 6 three times, Nov. 7 twice to stop fires," Bennett added.

The mayor said that is just an idea of some of the problems the fire department has had in addition to the dangerous woods fire in recent days.

Bennett emphasized, "I have instructed Police Chief Douglas Williams to have the entire city patrolled and ticket anyone for any type fire during this dry period."

"It is for the safety of lives and property," he added.

SHROUDED CITY—The view into Bay St. Louis from the corner of US-90 and Second Street Tuesday morning reveals the city to be shrouded under a pall of heavy smoke emanating from woods fires which persisted in the north end of town during the first part of the week. Hay fever, allergy and sinus conditions were triggered or aggravated among residents, and several homes and businesses were threatened. Firefighters and homeowners worked through several nights to save structures from wind-whipped flames. (Staff photo by Edgar Perez)

Offshore seismic work increasing

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Mississippi Commission on Natural Resources is preparing for its last public hearing in Jackson to help finalize offshore mineral leasing regulations.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Mobile Office is issuing an increasing number of permits for seismic studies in the Mississippi Sound and the adjacent outer continental shelf area in the Gulf of Mexico.

Exploration companies determine the location of these underground minerals to pinpoint the most effective location for drilling rigs.

The Corps recently authorized explosive and non-explosive (utilizing air guns) offshore seismic studies by Western Geophysical Co., C.G.G. Offshore Division and Fairfield Industries Inc., all of Houston, Tex., and Mobil Oil Exploration and Producing—Southeastern Inc. of New Orleans.

"Oil companies are particularly interested in drilling in the sound offshore from Hancock County and south of Cat Island where the Tuscaloosa Trend, an oil and gas formation, is thought to be located."

Aminco USA, Inc. of Lafayette, La. is already attempting to reach Tuscaloosa pay with its well located just south of US-90 and two miles west of the East Pearl River in St. Tammany Parish near Pearl River.

The Corps recently issued a permit to Collier Petroleum, also of Lafayette, to dredge an access keyway from the West Pearl River to accommodate a drilling "barge" for the Tammany operation.

Bureau of Land Management's New Orleans Office is offering for lease blocks of Outer Continental Shelf submerged land east of the Chandeleur Islands (southeast of Hancock) and blocks located south of Petit Bois Island near Jackson County. Bids for these leases will be opened in March.

The BLM will also offer five blocks for lease near Chandeleur in February. These tracts were scheduled to be leased on Oct. 20, but all proposals received at that time for those blocks were rejected due to "insufficiency of bid."

A commission public hearing was conducted Thursday at the Biloxi Community Center regarding leasing in the sound.

John D. Kellis, Mineral Lease Division chief of the Department of Natural Resources' Bureau of Geology, Monday in Jackson reported that very few people attended the commission's Biloxi hearing.

"No negative reactions were aired regarding our proposed rules and regulations," he stated.

Kellis said the bureau formulated rules based on existing regulations now governing offshore leasing in Florida, Alabama, Louisiana and Texas.

The division chief said most suggestions for the regulations have been offered by oil industry representatives.

He reported that most suggestions did not rebut major areas of the proposed regulations, but provided technical information which was not explicitly explained in the original draft.

Kellis noted a final hearing will be at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Imperial Room of the Ramada Inn West at the corner of Highway 90 and Ellis Avenue in Jackson.

He said after the hearing, the proposed regulations will have any additional suggestions will be presented to the department's attorney to prepare a final document.

A final draft of the regulations will be prepared and submitted to the commission of the Gulf of Mexico.

The commission is expected to meet in Jackson on Wednesday to discuss the regulations.

Bay Council witholds $33,000 payment

By BRENT MACEY
The Hancock County Board of Supervisors Monday withheld a $33,000 payment to the Bay St. Louis Chamber of Commerce because of a dispute over the chamber's financial records.

The board said it withheld the payment because the chamber's financial records were not in order. The chamber president said he was not aware of the problem and that the chamber's financial records were in order.

The Great American Smokeout is now in its fifth consecutive year as a nationwide celebration. The first mass movement by smokers to give up cigarettes was led by Lynn R. Smith, editor of the Minneapolis, Minn. Times, in his home town in 1974. Smith's idea, "No Day," quickly spread throughout Minnesota. In 1978 it skipped west to California where it became known as the Great American Smokeout. In 1977 the Smokeout was observed for the first time nationwide.

Jordan released on reduced bond

Picayune pair charged with drug possession

Two Picayune men were arrested in the Santa Rosa Community Monday and charged with possessing a controlled substance and about one and one-half pounds of marijuana, according to Hancock investigator Alvin Ladner.

Ladner said, "Deputies Glen Strong and Alton Sick were patrolling the area when they spotted a suspicious looking vehicle which they stopped. Some items, allegedly controlled substance, were found in the car and a further search revealed 19 bags of alleged marijuana amounting to about one and one-half pounds."

Arrested were Kevin Stockstill, 20, Rt. 4 Box 52 Picayune, and Rodney

Seal, 22, 520 Second Avenue, Picayune, and both were charged with alleged possession of marijuana, intent to sell and possession of a controlled substance.

A preliminary hearing is scheduled before Justice Court Judge Horatio Frierson with bond set at $5,000 each. Investigator Ladner is in charge of the case.

In other police activities, Hancock investigator Delbert Seay reports the arrest of two adults and one juvenile allegedly involved in a weekend theft of tires and batteries from vehicles belonging to National Guard members. Robert Corkin, 19, Rt. 2 Box 247, Bay St. Louis, and Louis (Pete) Meyers, 23, Springwood Park, Bay St. Louis, and a juvenile who was turned over to the Hancock Youth Court were arrested on Tuesday for the alleged theft of the tires and batteries.

Seay reports that Corkin is charged with grand larceny and bond has been set at $5,000. Bond was set at $500 for Meyers, who is charged with petit larceny in connection with theft of a battery.

Both are scheduled to appear before Justice Court Judge John Chevils on Nov. 25.

Richard Conrad Caruso, 39, Rt. 3, Box 315A, Carrier, Miss. was arrested by Seay on alleged fraud on Wednesday. Seay said, "Caruso is charged with issuing bad checks in the amount of $1,300 with intent to fraud."

A preliminary hearing is set for Dec.

9 before Justice Court Judge Horatio Frierson. Bond was set at $2,500 for Caruso.

Hancock Sheriff, Ronald Peterson reports that Henry Paul Jordan, 30, appeared in a preliminary hearing before Waveland City Judge Lucien Cox Tuesday in connection with the shooting death of Waveland contractor Robert Hargett on Nov. 12.

Jordan was bound over to the January Grand Jury and bond was reduced from $50,000 to $10,000. Peterson said Jordan has been released on bond.

Jordan was represented by Joseph Benvenutti, Bay attorney, and the state was represented by John Genin at the hearing, according to Peterson.

HGH board names planning body

By ELLIS CUEVAS

A long range planning committee of nine persons was approved by Hancock General Hospital Trustees at their regular meeting Tuesday.

Trustee Brother Martin Hernandez is to serve as chairman with Perry Gibson as co-chairman of the group to be composed of residents from throughout Hancock County.

Brother Martin and Gibson were recently appointed by the HGH board to select the seven other members of the committee.

Dr. Andrew Martinovich, Bay St. Louis radiologist, will represent the medical staff of HGH with Dr. J.H. Nodurt of Diamondhead as alternate.

Elected officials selected are A.A. (Dolph) Keller, president of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors; James Thriftley, Bay St. Louis councilman; and Barbara Rappold, Waveland alderman.

The representative from civic organizations named to the group is Louis Breaux, a resident of White Cypress.

The two members-at-large are Rev. Robert Sams of Pearllington, an employee of Hancock North Central School; and representing the nursing staff is Kathy Savage, director of nurses/HGH and a resident of Kiln.

The administrator of HGH, Phil Langston, will serve as ex-officio member of the committee, but does not have voting privileges.

The long range planning committee is to report its recommendations to the board of trustees.

Rev. Charles Johnson, president of the HGH trustees, signed a resolution of board commitment to the planning endeavor in support of the comprehensive planning effort.

Also at Tuesday's board meeting, Mike Hallford, hospital comptroller, reported collections at the hospital during October, 1981 were $170,000 more than that month the previous year.

He said the higher collections were made even though the census was about the same as October last year.

The census at the hospital jumped from 11 in October to an average of 24 through midnight of Nov. 16, according to Hallford.

The bad debt average is continually dropping, according to Hallford, who reported five percent delinquencies for October whereas the yearly average has been nine percent.

Trustee Dr. J.H. Lee stated, "Things have been working very smooth even with the increase in the use of the operating room with the addition of the new doctors."

The hospital administrator reported the ordering of new heaters for the Intensive Care Unit.

Four new beds for the Intensive Care Unit arrived Tuesday at HGH to replace old beds in the unit, according to Langston.

The beds cost $5,000 and were donated to HGH by the Hospital Ladies Auxiliary.

Unanimous action was taken by the trustees for Langston to send a letter of appreciation to the HGH Ladies Auxiliary for the new beds.

Dr. Irene Kookan was recommended by the Medical Staff as associate active.

staff member at HGH and unanimously accepted.

Lee explained that the Medical Staff's procedure is for a doctor to serve a one-year period as associate active before active status is awarded. Kookan specializes in internal medicine with offices in Dunbar Avenue in Bay St. Louis.

A lengthy discussion was held about the problems with a lack of space at HGH, Langston said. "We need more space as we are really cramped in some areas."

Langston was asked by the trustees to submit a recommendation to them at their next meeting.

Attention was made of the possibility of a metal building or mobile home to be used for several out services and some accounting services.

Seedlings available

There is still time to order at any Forestry Commission tree seedlings from the State office and some County Forestry Commission for planting during the coming Winter season, but you would be wise to hurry, according to results of a recent Commission inventory of seedling thousand for genetically superior cottonwood cuttings.

As of late October, the Forestry Commission still had 16-17 million tiny pine and hardwood trees available for purchase. About 13 million of that total was Loblolly Pine, and cuttings.

The total of remaining available tree seedlings represents about 20 percent of the Commission's 1981 nursery crop.

Purchasers may designate the application forms for month (Dec.-March) in which buying the trees are available they desire delivery.

PATROLMAN HOSPITALIZED—Viewing a wrecked State Highway Patrol car totally demolished in a Sunday morning two-car accident on Hwy. 49 in John Jacobson of Bayside Park who is a mechanic with Sam Pernicaro and Son Wrecker Service of Bay St. Louis. Patrolman Tony Greer, 42, of Kila is in satisfactory condition at Crosby Memorial Hospital in Piquette after sustaining multiple injuries including a ruptured spleen and broken ribs in the 7:30 a.m. accident which occurred just east of the Hickory Creek bridge. Greer was reportedly traveling east when he veered from the highway to avoid a head-on collision with a car driven by Randy D. McArthur, 23, of Pascagoula which sideswiped the state vehicle. McArthur was treated at the hospital for a head laceration and released. He is charged with reckless driving and other charges pending further investigation. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

Knights' Notes

Our second meeting for the month of November has been rescheduled for this Monday night.

An executive meeting of the Home Building Association has been planned to begin at 6:30 p.m.

This meeting is open to the general membership. The regular meeting will begin afterwards at approximately 8 p.m.

We ask that all knights attend both these meetings and take an active role in the proceedings.

Your participation is a vital part of our organization.

The grand knight is pleased to announce that the council will donate $1,000 to Hancock Industries.

The proceeds are from this year's highly successful Toolie Roll Drive. A special presentation will be made at our next meeting.

Chancellor Mel Estrade is seeking help with the phone committee.

"The members we have on the committee are doing an excellent job," he said, "but they could use a little relief from making the calls. If we have more volunteers we could be able to spread out the number of calls each member has to make and this would speed things up quite a bit."

Estrade reminds every member can help just by informing another member of meeting times and scheduled events.

"unless the work is considered and emergency situation."

He said the council must also approve hiring the firm.

The sewer and street repair work performed by Southland "was not put out for bids, was never approved by the council, and also was never declared an emergency," he said.

He said he feared each council member could be liable for the full amount of the bill plus a $5,000 fine if the bill were paid.

Wednesday Bennett said he had hired the firm in "late September" after receiving numerous calls from people who complained about the city streets needing repair.

He said the company had previously submitted a bid for sewer and street paving work in January of 1981 when yearly bids were accepted by the council.

He said "Southland Enterprises submitted the lowest bid and noted that bid was approved by the council at that time."

He said the bid was effective only until June.

For that reason, he said, he called the company officials in September. The officials agreed the same prices included in the January offer would be extended, he said.

Bennett said he then called all the councilmen on the telephone to receive their approval before hiring the firm.

"I called Gene Taylor first," Bennett said.

"They were all in agreement to have the work done."

Some 14 sewer breaks were repaired by the company which later paved the streets in those areas and also in other areas throughout the city, Bennett said.

Two bills submitted to the council were placed on the October Claims docket.

The street sewer repair bill totaled $17,404. The street repair bill totaled $16,063.

City Clerk Eddie Favre said he and the mayor had contacted the state audit department Tuesday before the meeting.

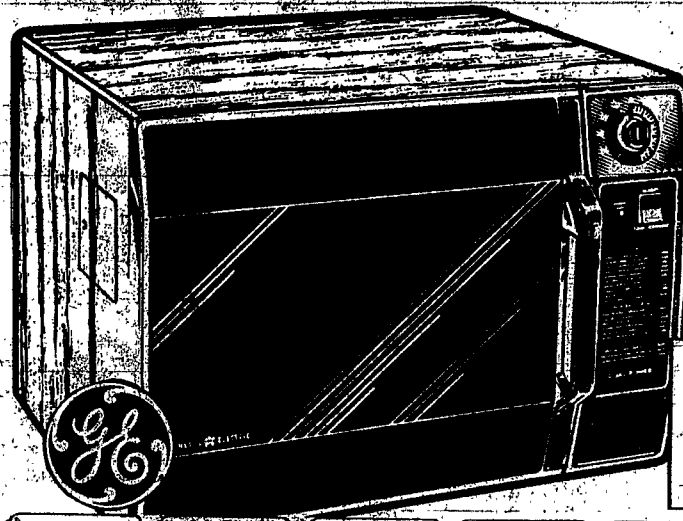

Favre said the two talked with Tommy Dyson of the department.

"He (Dyson) said that although the correct procedure was not followed the key to the matter was that the city did not lose any more money than if the job had been bid."

Favre said Dyson suggested the council now approve a resolution explaining who was hired, and why they were hired, before making the payment.

Bennett claims he saved the city money by repairing the streets and sewer lines in September.

"If they are not fixed when they need to be, then the same job that would have cost $700 will cost $1,500 or $2,000 if you wait," he said.

Fairgrounds prepared for Hancock horse show

Final preparations for the first Hancock County, Gulf Coast Hunter/Jumper Horse Show beginning at 8 a.m. this Saturday at the Fairgrounds on Longfellow Road have been completed.

Chickie Marble, a Bay St. Louis resident organizing the event in Hancock County with the Mississippi Hunter/Jumper Association, said prize lists of classes have been compiled and mailed to riders and stables in Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana.

Jumps have been prepared for the contest along with courses designed for the event, she said.

"Many outstanding stables have entered the competition," Marble said.

She noted the Pierre Ruling Academy of New Orleans, headed by Ole Striegel, will be exhibiting at the show.

Marble said Striegel and his horse 'Starway to Heaven' won the Puissance Class jumping at six-foot six-inches at a recent New Orleans Creole Classic Show.

"Also Carroways' Levee View Stable will bring many young riders, ponies and good horses," she said.

Singing 'Rents' Ranch of Ocean Springs, J&N Farms of Gulfport, and Halston Farm in Jackson will also be exhibiting.

Marble said Tellers Drury, a local resident for many years, is now a professional horseman at his farm in Covington and has helped organize the show.

She said Drury's farm offers training for both horse and riders and also sells quality horses.

"English riding is fast becoming popular in this area and the Saturday show offers classes for the most novice riders and horse," Marble stated.

"Local riders are urged to participate, observe, and become involved in this exciting sport that has the Olympics as its ultimate crown," she said.

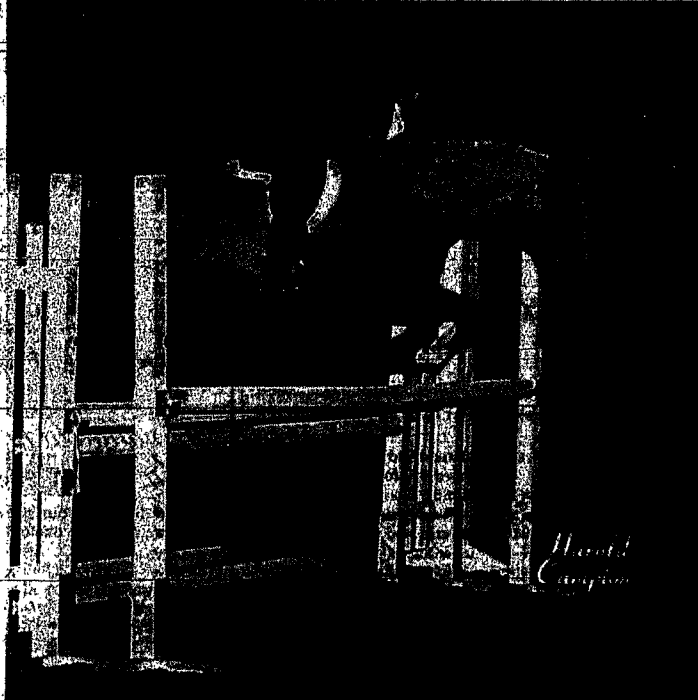

Concessions at the event will be served by local Band Aides of Bay High School.

Spectators are admitted free and encouraged to attend, she added.

Janet Offenhauser of New Canaan, Conn. will judge the event.

She is a recognized American Horse Show Association Judge and has judged as well as exhibited at many of the top shows in the east," Marble said.

SLATED FOR FAIRGROUNDS—The first Hancock County Hunter/Jumper Show is scheduled this Saturday beginning at 8 p.m. at the Hancock County Fairgrounds. Jumps and courses for the competition have been prepared for the event. Above, Jo Elynn Frisbie of Bay St. Louis competes in a similar event during a World Champion Quarter Horse Show in Tulsa, Oklahoma. Spectators are invited to attend for free.

Some 25 of those students attend classes in Bay St. Louis in a classroom located off US-90 near the Waveland Shopping Center. Eighteen other students attend a class located on Hwy 603 near Hancock North Central.

Ladner Bowl to feature top conference players

Some outstanding football players from both Bay High and St. Martin will be matched against one another this Saturday at Hancock North Central High School during the Seventh Annual Wendall Ladner Bowl.

The bowl game, scheduled to begin at 1:30 p.m., is in memory of the late Wendall Ladner, the only professional athlete to prep at Hancock North Central.

St. Martin quarterback Jeff Webb will be starting for the Yellow Jackets.

Webb, who has been named to the Burger King All-Star Team and has been chosen as the Most Outstanding Back in the Gulf Coast Conference, is currently being recruited by such schools as Alabama, Georgia, Florida State, LSU, TSM, Ole Miss, and Miss. State.

His season record includes 491 yards passing, 349 rushing. Yellow Jacket Mike Hill is also a member of the Burger King All-Stars. And Tony Bennett has been chosen as a member of the Gulf Coast All Conference Team.

Bennett is also the Yellow Jacket's leading rusher with 522 yards and a leading scorer with 36 points including three kickoff returns of 97, 95, and 92 yards.

St. Martin has a 5-4 season record under first year Head Coach Howard McNeill.

The Tigers ended their season with a 6-4 season record, and a 5-2 record in Deep South Conference play. Only a total of three points in two conference game losses kept the Tigers from the number one conference championship.

The Tigers however, claim the title of County Champions following victories over both St. Stanislaus and Hancock North Central.

Outstanding Tiger players include quarterback David Palmisano, fullback Dennis Rhodes, fullback Walter Ross, defensive end Jimmy Sones, linebacker Ronald Carter, and punter Van Fayard.

All three Tigers were named to the Deep South All Conference Team. Tigers Mike Proulx, Mark Davis and Charles Hawkins were all honorable mention.

In addition, both Sones and Rhodes are members of the Burger King All-Star Team.

Whether a traditional $1,000 will be presented to a North Central student following the game, remains questionable.

Louis Breaux Jr., a member of the Central Hancock Recreational Organization which sponsored the game last year, after the Central Hancock J.C.'s disbanded, said the recreational organization could not sponsor the game this year due to the amount of time and people required to organize the event.

For that reason the organization requested the Hancock North Central Athletic Department take over sponsoring the game, he said.

A scholarship was not presented last year, since the girl who would have been presented the scholarship already had been awarded a scholarship to attend Pearl River Junior College, Breaux stated.

He stated the organization agreed not to present the traditional scholarship to any individual who has already received one.

That policy was recorded in the organizations minutes before last year's game, he said.

State statute does not allow any school district to present scholarships to students.

Breaux said he was uncertain if one would be presented this year.

He noted the recreation organization is helping the school district conduct the game and noted he hoped the bowl game would continue regardless of whether a scholarship was presented.

and earthworms. The juvenile, said Lubuda, tried to clip a fresh cow chip.

Blakenship said in southern Oklahoma he saw the cranes feed on newly planted wheat. He was concerned about that because the seeds are treated with a substance that kills fungi.

"The fungicide is toxic but I don't know how toxic. We'll start studying the effect fungicides have on cranes," said Blakenship. This is an example of why it is important to know what the large birds do during the migration, the Audubon biologist said.

Blakenship also said tracking expeditions like the one conducted this year might identify which stop-over sites, if any, are frequently visited by the cranes, and the governments in turn can take steps necessary to preserve the sites.

"After all, when the whoopers are gone there will be no more — ever."

Drewien, a researcher at the Idaho Cooperative Wildlife Research Unit, University of Idaho, said the three chicks at the remote Canadian park are not the first cranes to be fitted with transmitters.

He said in 1979 and 1980 the technique was developed on a flock of whooping cranes and greater sandhill cranes, a constant to the endangered whooper. That flock nests in eastern Idaho at Gray Lake National Wildlife Refuge and then migrates about 800 miles south to spend the winter at Bosque del Apache National Wildlife Refuge in New Mexico.

The flock was monitored from the air only. The mountainous surface along the migration route prohibits the use of a ground crew, said Drewien who did a six year study of the flock of greater sandhills that led the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to believe sandhill cranes could hatch the extra eggs from Canada, and rear the whoopers as foster cranes.

The smaller cranes with slate-gray plumage, Drewien said, also taught the whoopers their own survival methods as well as the sandhill migration route.

Drewien said the information gained from the serial tracking of the Gray Lake-New Mexico flock cannot provide any insight into the migration habits of the Wood Buffalo-Aransas Refuge population because the terrain is significantly different.

During the tracking expedition of the Nyralling family undertaken by Canada and the United States, Lubuda detailed the accounts of his journey. Excerpts from that diary follow:

Oct. 4 — The Nyralling family flies about 175 miles south of Wood Buffalo National Park to Fort McMurray in the Alberta province where they remain until October 9.

Oct. 9 — The cranes travel about 270 miles to the Reward area. They remain there feeding in grain fields and watering in ponds.

Oct. 20 — It starts to snow heavily. The cranes fly south to Swift Current in southern Saskatchewan, about 90 miles north of the Montana border.

Oct. 21 — The birds continue southward 150 miles and arrive at Plentywood, Mont.

Oct. 22 — The family flies about 470 miles south to Valentine, Neb. The ground crew is lagging behind in Culbertson, Mont.

Oct. 23 — The Nyrallings wing about 125 miles to Kearney, Neb. The ground crew of Lubuda and Blakenship catches up with the birds.

Oct. 24 — Some 100 miles further south, the cranes arrive in Rush Center, Kan.

Oct. 25 — The cranes travel 120 miles to the Cimarron River near Wynoka, Okla. They feed on grasshoppers, tadpoles and crawfish.

Oct. 26 — They journey 140 miles south to Lawton, Okla. The army is testing artillery on the ground, not in the air, as the cranes fly over a military base in Fort Sill.

Oct. 27 — There are strong southerly winds. The cranes travel a meager 30 miles to Byers, Texas where they roost near Red River until November 1. Strong winds keep them there.

Nov. 1 — At about 9 a.m. the Nyralling family leaves Byers and flies 230 miles to Rosebud, Texas. They gather at a livestock pond in a cow pasture.

Nov. 2 — The cranes fly about 178 miles to Tivoli, Texas, and stay overnight at another cow pasture.

Nov. 3 — The Nyralling family leaves Tivoli at 7:20 a.m. The trio travels the remaining 18 miles to the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge.

HBO GOES 24 HOURS A DAY.

AMERICA'S BEST MOVIE SERVICE GETS EVEN BETTER

To serve all our subscribers better, Home Box Office® is going 24 hours beginning in January (we're already 24 hours on weekends). But, unlike another 24-hour movie channel, HBO does not show R-rated movies at times when younger children may be watching.

HBO HAS BIG MOVIES OTHER MOVIE CHANNELS DON'T

This winter, great movies like The Jazz Singer, Fort Apache: The Bronx and Flash Gordon will play only on Home Box Office. No other movie channel can offer you these movie exclusives and show you all the big Hollywood hits like Ordinary People as soon as they're available.

HBO IS MUCH MORE THAN JUST MOVIES

On HBO, great movies are just the beginning. HBO subscribers have enjoyed America's best concerts and comedy acts with stars like Diana Ross, Steve Martin, Linda Ronstadt, HBO has also shown world championship boxing matches this year featuring Holmes, Leonard, Hagler and others.

To get HBO, call your local cable company or authorized HBO distributor and ask for HBO by name.

Mississippi Brownbuilder Clem Howell: One of the Best

Clem Howell, from Lucedale, is helping build the economic growth and progress of his state as part of Brown & Root's worldwide engineering and construction team.

Clem joined Brown & Root in 1974 as a carpenter and is now a carpenter general foreman. He and his wife, Katherine, have three children and one grandchild. A former member and president of the George County Board of Supervisors, Clem enjoys hunting and fishing on the weekends.

Another thing about Clem: he's one of the best. He's helping Brown & Root do a better job because he knows his job and gets it done right. His advancement with Brown & Root speaks for itself.

Wherever Brown & Root works, we always look for people like Clem. We give preference in hiring to people in jobsite communities and offer them opportunities to advance as fast and as far as their abilities and merit take them. That way, we share the benefits of owning jobs with local people and share the economic benefits of pay rolls, increased savings and taxes with local communities and states.

Brownbuilder Clem Howell helps us all by being one of the best.

BKW takes four, Hancock wins one in local bouts

The Bay-Kin-Waveland Boxing Club participated in five regular matches and one exhibition on an 11-bout, USA-ABF card sponsored by the Hancock Boxing Club at the Fairgrounds Saturday night.

Chuck Karl of BKW, and Louisiana State Silver Gloves champion, defeated Pearlington's Eddie Bennett of the Gulfport Boxing Club in three one minute rounds of boxing.

Ocean Springs promptly called for a re-match. Timmy Varborough of the BKW team defeated Jimmy Wheat of the Ocean Springs Club in a highly disputed Judges' decision. Ocean Springs again insisted on a re-match.

Lovers Saturday were Charles Gillum and Richard Hawkins.

Hancock coach Larry Ravolli said Jr. Food, Clites of Waveland and Bay St.

Louis, Sheriff Ronald Peterson and the Hancock Fairgrounds Association contributed to the success of Saturday's event.

Dr. Marion Wolfe served as ring physician.

BKW coach John Whisenand said Larry Scott of Pass Christian has donated $100 for a five-foot "Best Fight of the Night" trophy to be awarded at the DAV Hall Nov. 23 when three states will compete on a 23-bout card sponsored by the BKW Boxing

Kiln Library increases Zengarling Collection

The Hancock County Library System has added a large number of children's books to the Kiln Library's Terri Kay Zengarling Memorial Collection, according to Prima Wismack, library system director.

The recent acquisitions were made possible by a donation from Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Zengarling in memory of their daughter, Terri Kay, for whom a memorial fund was established in 1978.

"The Terri Kay Zengarling Memorial Fund has provided the Kiln Library with children's literature of the highest quality," said Ms. Wismack.

Winter links drop out rate with lack of kindergartens

Mississippi has the nation's highest dropout rate and is the only state without a statewide system of public kindergartens, Governor William Winter linked these grim statistics with Mississippi's inability to fund its monopoly on both places in most economic categories, including having the nation's lowest per capita income.

Winter made this connection in a speech to some 600 educators and public officials at the opening session of the Governor's General Conference on Education.

"For every 100 Mississippians who finish high school, 50 drop out," Winter said. "Some 15,000 children are dropped out of school every year and another 8,000 never even entered school. That's the percentage higher than any other state in the nation. The dropout rate is so high, it's almost unbelievable."

Winter called for a new approach by the state to the problem of school attendance.

Stressing that he wasn't attacking the current system of education, Winter added that an effective compulsory school attendance law ages and reading levels. Among the reference books recently acquired are: A Picture Atlas of Our Fifty States; A Picture Atlas of Our Universe; and A Picture Atlas of Our World, published by the National Geographic Society.

Numerous picture books have also been purchased including a set of "Early Start Readers" for young children and more than 50 books on holidays and biographies of famous Americans for elementary school children.

Ever wonder why crows put ants under their feathers? Can you guess which plant has a seed the size of a basketball? Bafted, as to why hyenas laugh?

Give up? Then turn to Ranger Rick's Answer Book for the explanations. This new hardcover anthology of nature lore is written for children five to 12. Its 96 pages are filled with questions and answers about geology, plants, weather, and animals and they're illustrated with full-color photographs, diagrams, and cartoons.

So why do crows put ants under their feathers? Other birds behave in this unusual manner, too, and scientists guess that the ants may eat lice and other pests which live in the bird's feathers. Another explanation: Many ant-hill mounds contain a sharp-smelling liquid called formic acid. When a bird crushes an ant and puts it under its feathers, the formic acid may clean the feathers or kill small pests.

According to Ranger Rick's Answer Book, the world's biggest seed is the rare Coco de Mer coconut, which grows on islands in the Indian Ocean.

Ranger Rick's Answer Book is available for $9.95 from the National Wildlife Federation, 10223 DY, 1412 16th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036. Include $1.15 per order for handling.

Richard Truly, as a "product of Mississippi public schools," Truly, a Mississippi native, is scheduled to pilot the space shuttle Columbia on its second space flight.

"But in the hard language of the marketplace," Winter continued, "Mississippi lags behind its neighbors in providing a competitive educational system."

In 1970 Mississippi had the lowest per capita income in the nation, but was just $200 behind Arkansas and $300 behind Alabama. Today, a decade later, Mississippi is 500 behind Arkansas and 1,000 behind Alabama.

The disparities can't be attributed to much except education, Winter said, since geographic location, political and transportation facilities were all about the same.

Winter called for a new approach by the state to the problem of school attendance.

Stressing that he wasn't attacking the current system of education, Winter added that an effective compulsory school attendance law

Substantial increases seen in technical jobs for grads

A recent report in the "Journal of Higher Education" projected substantial increases in employment opportunities this year for college graduates in the technical fields.

This trend, said Carl Lawrence, director of placement services at the University of Southern Mississippi, is basically holding true for the students who are job-hunting through the USM Placement Bureau.

According to the report, students with bachelor's degrees in engineering can expect a 12 percent increase in job opportunities in business, a 13 percent increase in science, mathematics and other technical areas, a 23 percent increase in liberal arts majors, however, can expect only a five percent increase, down from an eight percent increase last year.

"Liberal arts graduates have problems finding jobs," Lawrence said. "The reason is that they aren't specifically trained within a technical or business field. Those who have a minor or a strong emphasis in business are usually considered. We have advocated, as has the liberal arts department itself, that liberal arts students take more business courses."

In all of the areas, percentages were higher for students with master's and doctoral degrees, but Lawrence said that this actually makes "very little" difference.

"Companies will pay people with master's degrees more for the degree, and they will hire them, but usually the recruiters come in looking for a bachelor's degree," he said. "They are willing to talk to advanced degree people, however."

For the past two years, 50 percent of the USM graduating class has used the Placement Bureau's services, which are free to both USM students and alumni.

The majority, said Lawrence, find jobs if they follow the bureau's procedures.

"Relocation is a problem," he said. "Some consider only one location. If someone wants a job only in Hattiesburg, you can imagine how limited that person is going to be."

Another problem is that students don't realize how long it takes to find career employment, and they wait too long before coming to the Bureau.

Lawrence said that the process, including the initial contact, interviews and evaluations, may take six months to a year. Yet students sometimes come in the day after graduation to register for the Bureau's services.

"For every job opportunity," he said, "there are hundreds of people. This office can furnish information faster than anyone else in the state, and if an employer sees you first—maybe he will look no further."

Lawrence did have advice for job applicants. "They need to find out all they can about the job-seeking process. The personal interview is very important. You can look like a million dollars on paper and then blow it within the first five minutes of the personal interview.

Personal appearance is important—the proper dress is very important. Also, the ability to communicate, because you're one-on-one with a recruiter. This includes posture, eye contact and oral communication. The credentials package—the resume, how much you know about the company—is also important."

The Placement Bureau provides pamphlets and brochures that are guidelines in preparing for job-seeking, and for the students who register for their services, they provide specific information about the companies who will be interviewing on campus.

Waveland's gifted students participate in Nuclear Forum

Students in the Real Program for gifted students at Waveland Elementary recently attended the Nuclear Waste Forum at the Coast Coliseum in Biloxi. In preparation for this activity, Mrs. Patricia Box-Pope, the teacher in this program, assigned specific research activities and projects related to nuclear waste. Some of these included each student's researching meanings of various terms relative to nuclear waste, writing reports on one of the five speakers at the forum, and conducting a mock forum in the classroom. At the forum, students were assigned to photograph the particular speaker whom they had been assigned to research as well as interviewing the speaker, if possible. As culmination activities, Mrs. Box-Pope has assigned the students to write to one of the speakers and to research topics such as "How the Nuclear Waste Depository Would Affect DNA." Future topics in the REEL Program will be city and state government in November with Mrs. Joyce Warner, a teacher of Mississippi History at Bay Senior High, and Bob Joiner, highway commissioner for the southern district, as keynote resource persons. Sculpture and metal fabrication will be activities related to the December theme of "The History of Christmas."

Emotion and Asthma

People used to think asthma was an emotional—not a real physical—disease. Such beliefs are wrong, says the American Lung Association. The Christmas Seal people. Although emotions and our reaction to them can spur a wheezing episode, asthma is definitely a physically-based disease. A child's embarrassment over asthma, totally unnecessary, may feature himself in his and his mother's reactions, thus bringing on wheezing. On a parent's response, fear of the child's illness may cause the child to feel that the child and his or her illness are a part of the family. The American Lung Association is sponsoring a campaign to raise awareness of asthma as a physical disease.

CHOPPER CHAPTER—Dellale Elementary students watched an Army National Guard helicopter land on the school campus recently, according to principal Patricia Zatarain. Each child went into the helicopter after it landed. This event was staged in connection with completion of a reading segment on "Helicopters and Gingerbread." The group had already had their gingerbread treat, Zatarain said. Mrs. Mary Moran was in charge of the activity.

Pull of gravity among first experiences of the new-born

MOVING IS LEARNING

Everything babies do teaches them something about themselves and the world. Moving is no exception.

Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter, reports that as soon as a baby is born he experiences the pull of gravity.

His body, head, arms, and legs now have weight and he must learn to live in a world where everything he does is affected by his weight and the weight of the objects he handles.

To learn to live with gravity, a baby begins moving his arms and legs. His head weighs about one-fourth as much as his whole body, and that's why he doesn't move it too much at first.

The early first clenching arm waving and leg kicking a baby does are mostly reflex responses to hunger or discomfort. When he has been fed, he usually goes back to sleep. But there are a few periods each day that the very young baby spends in just moving.

As a baby develops from week to week, these moving periods become longer, and the movements become stronger and more frequent. The kicks and waves may seem aimless, but the baby is busy learning how his legs feel when he kicks, when he stiffens them, when he stretches.

He learns how his arms feel as they change position. He learns that when he moves against gravity he must work harder than when he moves with it. He begins to learn that there is a difference between himself and everything else in the world that is not himself.

As a baby kicks and waves, a constant stream of sensations is fed back into his brain from his muscles, joints, tendons, and skin. These are sorted out, matched with similar sensations, and filed. This is the basis for the building of coordinated skills like reaching, grasping, crawling, creeping, walking and running.

Exercise periods are good for a baby. Dress him in loose clothing or just a diaper and give him freedom to move. Gentle roughhousing will encourage activity.

Roll him gently from side to side. Gently hold one foot, and then the other, then both feet so he must pull or push to free himself. Resist him gently, but don't frustrate him. Talk to him all the while and make a happy game of it.

Moving is learning for a baby. Not only does he learn from the movement itself, but he learns that when he moves purposefully, he can make something happen. This is a giant step toward gaining confidence in his ability to change.

For more information on the physical and social development of children up to the age of six, write to Growing Child, P.O. Box 620N, Lafayette, IN 47902. When writing, include child's birthdate.
